WENDELL

The Arizona
Judicial Reference Site

By Judges.
For Judges.

Wendell is an online reference resource created to connect judges, their staff, court clerks, and court administrators directly to information they need in their work.

Accessible to judicial officers and their staff through the Arizona Judicial Information Network (AJIN), Wendell improves judicial efficiency by making the following resources readily available:

- Areas of Law

Covering the wide breadth of Arizona's judiciary, the Areas of Law section provides information on Civil, Criminal, Appellate, Traffic, Juvenile, Family, and Tax law.

- Capital Cases

A valuable document archive provided by the Maricopa County Superior Court, this section offers everything from outlines on trial procedure to scripts and forms designed specifically to help judges.

- Jury Instructions

The Revised Arizona Jury Instructions are provided by the State Bar of Arizona, in both criminal and civil editions.

- COJET Classroom

Offering a variety of independent learning opportunities, from self-paced trainings to video archives, the COJET Classroom has helped transform Wendell from an informational resource to an educational one.

- Retired Judges

Wendell maintains a listing of retired judges who are available to be called for service in the Superior court.

- Courts Directory

Phone and address listings are available for most of the courthouses and judges around Arizona. Wendell also provides a listing of retired judges who are available to be called for service in the Superior court.

- Legal Resources

Serving as a portal to a large number of useful websites and resources of particular use to judges, the Legal Resources section links to areas ranging from the Federal Government to online law references like Westlaw, Loislaw, and LexisNexis.

- Legal Reference Sites

Housing the latest electronic version of the bench books, helpful scripts, primers and desk guides, the Legal References section is a one-stop repository of judicial for many judges.

- Law Review Articles

Case law reviews, minute entries, and scholarly works of Arizona judges are available for use and reference by their peers.

- Training Opportunities

Wendell provides information on training programs and seminars that may be of interest to judges, but exist outside of the Arizona Court's jurisdiction. We advise all court staff to check with their training coordinator before embarking on any course of study.

The Judicial College of Arizona's Publications Board chairperson serves as editor-in-chief for Wendell. The chairperson appoints other judges, court clerks, and administrators to an editorial advisory board responsible for reviewing Wendell materials.

The editorial advisory board recommends content for current and future projects to publish on Wendell. It also accepts content submissions from any judge or member of the Arizona judiciary who feels the material would be beneficial for other members of the judiciary.

Content material recommendations can be submitted throughout the year and are updated immediately when approved. The developers and advisors on Wendell strive to provide accurate, beneficial information to the Arizona judiciary.
